The Fire of Spring

By MARGARET POTTER. 12mo, ornamental cloth, $1.50.

THIS book was written as a study of a condition of modern American life. Its theme, perhaps the oldest in fiction, has become typical in America only within the last decade. But the questions of just how far a man may let business absorb him without danger to his domestic life—of how long a young, romantic, inexperienced girl will bear loneliness in her married life, are being asked by many people in this country to-day. Nevertheless the matter of the story should not be magnified in importance. It concerns what, in the happy after-life of the "Van Studdiford's," was remembered only a dark and tragic episode.

An Act in a Backwater

By E. F. BENSON, author of "Dodo" and "The Challoners."
12mo, ornamental cloth, $1.50.

THE heroine is discovered by the hero in the little country town of Wroxton. She is engaged at the time of the discovery in preventing a puppy-dog fresh from his bath from shaking his curly coat on her newest frock. Her only weapon of defence is a silk parasol. The hero is without any weapon of defence at all, so he promptly falls in love with the laughing girl, and hastens home to paint a picture of her just as he found her with the puppy. The latter continues to fall into every available body of water throughout the book. The hero eventually wins the original of his painting.

D. APPLETON & COMPANY      Publishers      New York

"A story of the Civil War which really goes by its own momentum has got to be something of a rarity.

"'My Lady of the North' does go, and goes with sweep and dash, without omitting any of the old-fashioned properties of romance or noble sentiment."

New York Times Saturday Review (Feb. 4)

NOTES IN SEASON.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. have just ready "Hurricane Island," by H. B. Marriott Watson; and "The Wedding of the Lady of Lovell," by Una B. Silberrad, containing a half dozen short stories.

DODGE PUBLISHING Co. have just ready a new volume of optimistic essays by Leigh Mitchell Hodges, entitled "The Worth of Service." Each essay is preceded by an illuminated page printed on India proof paper.

A. C. MCCLURG & Co. have in press the sixth edition of "My Lady of the North," that fine story of the Civil War which is now listed among the great sellers of the Southern, Central and Western States.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY will publish about March 1 "The Ravens," by Harris Dickson, with illustrations by Seymour M. Stone. The hero's first impression was of the face of his assassinated father, and the story of life in the South is full of mystery and surprise.

A. S. BARNES & Co. have now ready "The White Terror and the Red," a novel of Revolutionary Russia by A. Cahan; "The Wanderers," by Dr. Henry C. Rowland, a brilliant story of a twice-abducted yacht sailing from Gibraltar to the South Seas; and a third edition of this author's "To Windward."

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. are publishing new books this spring for Mary Austin, Carolyn Wells, Rowland E. Robinson, Lyman Abbott, C. Hanford Henderson, Charles Sprague Sargent, Herbert K. Job, George Herbert Palmer, Alleyne Ireland, Hugo Munsterberg, and John White Chadwick.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have a book full of old memories in Charles E. Trow's "The Old Shipmasters of Salem," telling of the good old days when Salem was the leading port in New England and her trading vessels were known on every sea. Mr. Trow has collected many portraits of the old shipmasters and pictures of their vessels, which add greatly to the interest of the book.

D. APPLETON & Co. issued on February 17 Cyrus Townsend Brady's "The Conquest of the Southwest," the story of a great spoliation, beginning with the treaty of 1819 and closing with the compromise of 1850. In this essay the author has gathered the material from a vast number of published and unpublished books. It is of interest that Cyrus Townsend Brady, Jr., is following in his father's footsteps, and has been of great assistance in getting at the widely scattered facts.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just ready "Logic Deductive and Inductive," by John Grier Hibben, Stuart Professor of Logic in Princeton University; "The Life of Reason; or, the Phases of Human Progress," by George Santayana, who divides his work into two volumes, subtitled "Reason in Common Sense" and "Reason in Society;" "Coventry Patmore," by Edmund Gosse, the new volume in the Literary Lives, edited by W. Robertson Nicoll; and a comedy in one act by Richard Harding Davis, entitled "Miss Civilization."

LITTLE, BROWN & COMPANY are printing "Mysterious Mr. Sabin," E. Phillips Oppenheim's romance of love, intrigue and German and English political aspirations for the third time; and also are preparing a new edition of "The Colombian and Venezuelan Republics," by ex-Minister William L. Scruggs, with Panama Canal history brought up to date and giving the text of the Panama treaty. On Saturday, February 25, they will issue "The Coming of the King," a romance of the times of the Restoration of Charles II. of England, by Joseph Hocking; and a New National edition of Edward Everett Hale's ever new and always popular "Man Without a Country."

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

 The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk **, and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

- Deeping, G: Warwick. The slanderers. N. Y., Harper, 1905. [F.] c. 3+384 p. D. cl., $1.50.
The author follows his original Arthurian romance of "Uther and Igraine" with a novel of provincial England of to-day. A young idealist whose father is striving to make him a force in native politics is coaxed into marriage by a commonplace flirt who soon seeks her pleasures elsewhere. He meets an unsophisticated poetic girl and their sympathies tend to make them both purer and better. But the village slanderers go near to ruining a wholly ideal companionship. The descriptions of nature and natural emotions are true and poetic.

The former treats of the general nature of our thought processes as well as the fundamental principles and practice of deduction, and is now published for the first time. The latter is my inductive logic which was published in 1896, now revised and incorporated in this volume. It has been my endeavor to present in connection with the more formal and traditional treatment of the deductive logic also some considerations which have been contributed by the discussions of the modern logic and which find expression in such works as those of Sigwart, Lotze, Erdmann, Green, Bosanquet, Penn and others."—Author's Preface, Stuart, Professor of Logic in Princeton University.

Stewart, C. D. The fugitive blacksmith. N. Y., Century Co., 1905. [F.] c. 2+321 p. il. D. cl., †$1.50.

An Irishman named Finerty, with a rich brogue is the character who does the most speaking in this story of the Mississippi. Finerty is the keeper of the railroad sand house, where this racy story is racily told; though only a railroad hand, he is overflowing with a quaint and comfortable philosophy, which makes all he says well worth reading. Whether in confiding in his wife, or entertaining tramps, or hob-nobbing with "the fugitive blacksmith," he is most decidedly entertaining.

Stokes, Hugh. Sir Anthony Van Dyck: a life sketch and a list of the principal works of Van Dyck in the public galleries; il. with reproductions. N. Y., F. Warne & Co., 1905. 20+64 p. 8°, (Newnes' art lib.) bds., $1.25.

Trow, C. E. The old shipmasters of Salem; with mention of eminent merchants. N. Y., Putnam, 1905. c. 27+337 p. il. O. cl., **$2.50 net.

Tells of the good old days when Salem was the leading port in New England and her trading vessels were known on every sea. The Salem merchants were unusual men, and on their long voyages for silks and spices they encountered strange adventures. These are graphically related by Mr. Trow, and enlivened by many amusing anecdotes. He has collected many portraits of the old shipmasters, and pictures of the vessels in which they sailed, and of the buildings at home where they stored their goods and wealth.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BALLSTON SPA, N. Y.—The book and stationery store of Wood Brothers was damaged by fire a week ago, the loss being estimated at $2000.

BOSTON, MASS.—Frank Foxcroft, who for the last eight years has edited Littell's Living Age, has bought the magazine, and has formed a corporation under Massachusetts laws to continue its publication with a board of officers representing Boston families in which a file of Littell's Living Age, from its foundation in 1844 is a hereditary treasure. He will retain the editorial management, and the scope and policy of the magazine will be unchanged.

JACKSON, O.—W. H. Sloan is preparing to open a book and stationery store here.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—The Perine Book Co., 15 S. Fifth Street, has closed out business.

NEW YORK CITY.—Cupples & Leon have removed to 101 Fifth Avenue, between 17th and 18th Streets, where they have greatly enlarged facilities for their rapidly growing business and where they will be pleased to meet all their friends and customers. A large stock will be carried and the greater part of their shipping done from this place. They still continue to be the sole selling agents for DeWolfe, Fiske & Co., of Boston.

PEORIA, ILL.—The Richardson Book and Stationery Company has changed its firm name to Richardson Bros.

SANDWICH, MASS.—Frederick S. Pope, bookseller, has been succeeded by Miss S. E. Silsby.

VINITA, I. T.—W. A. Taylor has been succeeded by Chapman & Briggs.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

FEBRUARY 18, 1905.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE ASPECTS OF SUITS AGAINST MACY'S.

THE cases finally submitted to Judge Ray of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York, last month, both involved the general principle whether the owner of a copyright has the same control as the owner of a patent over the sale of the article for which the copyright and patent laws grant a monopoly. The case of the Bobbs-Merrill Company vs. R. H. Macy & Co. involved the right of the complainant as owner of the copyright of "The Castaway," copyrighted May 18, 1904, on each copy of which was printed notice that "the price of this book at retail is one dollar, no dealer is licensed to sell it at a less price, and a sale at less price will be treated as an infringement of the copyright," to prevent the defendant from selling the book at a less price than one dollar. The case of Charles Scribner's Sons vs. R. H. Macy & Co. involved the right of the complainant in the case of a number of books published at a net price, under the rules of the American Publishers' Association, to prevent the defendant from selling these books at a price below the stated net price.

In "The Castaway" case, examinations were had before J. A. Shields as examiner of Adolph Mackel of Ammon & Mackel as a representative bookseller, of Irving Putnam of G. P. Putnam's Sons, as a representative publisher, jobber, and bookseller, and of John J. Curtis, secretary of the Bobbs-Merrill Company and manager of its publication department, all of whom testified to the effect that the underselling of books tended to lower the value of a copyright, which Mr. Curtis estimated in the case of "The Castaway" to have been of a value of about $50,000 at the time of the commencement of this suit. Mr. Mackel and Mr. Putnam stated that the effect of underselling, as by the department stores, was to discourage the sale of the book by "legitimate" booksellers, who would be less likely to make the book permanent on their counters and less likely to reorder. Stipulations agreed upon by the counsel for both sides were also submitted, setting forth the general facts of the organization and plans of reform of the American Publishers' Association, and admitting the fact that "The Castaway" was sold by R. H. Macy & Co. below the price of one dollar.

In their brief for the Bobbs-Merrill Company, Boardman, Platt & Soley, solicitors for complainant, set forth as Point 1: "The notice printed in complainant's copyright book was effective to restrict the re-sale at retail to the net price specified in the notice. The sale by the defendants at a reduced retail price constitutes an infringement of complainant's copyright." Point 2 set forth that: "Even if the conduct of the defendants were not an infringement of complainants' copyright, the suit is maintainable upon the contract theory." In support of the first point it is argued that the decision of Judge Holland of the United States District Court in Pennsylvania, in the case of the Bobbs-Merrill Company against N. Sneltenburg & Co. is not a controlling precedent; that the effectiveness of such a restrictive notice to control the retail price is well established in patent cases, the leading cases cited being Victor Talking Machine Co. vs. The Fair, decided by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Illinois; Edison Phonograph Co. vs. Kaufmann, and other phonograph cases; Dickerson vs. Matheson, and other cases establishing the right of owners of a United States patent to prohibit the re-importation into the United States of a patented article as sold abroad; and the Button Fastener Co. vs. Eureka Specialty Co., and the Neostyle case, upholding the right of patentees to license a patented article for use exclusively with other articles of the patentees' manufacture. The case turns largely upon the analogy between patent law as interpreted in the Victor Talking Machine case, and copyright law.

In defence, Spiegelberg & Wise, solicitors for R. H. Macy, with John G. Carlisle and E. E. Wise, as counsel, set forth as Point 1: "The complainant fails to show impairment of any right protected by the copyright statutes." As Point 2: "Owing to the difference both in the theory and in the letter of the patent and copyright statutes, the cases relied upon by the complainants are inapplicable to the question of copyright here presented." As Point 3: "The decisions of the various Circuit Courts and of the Circuit Courts of Appeals, interpreting the patent law and relied upon by the complainant, have never received the sanction of the Supreme Court and are in apparent conflict with its decisions." As Point 4: "The complainants are parties to a combination which is illegal in its scope and intent both under the State law and under the Federal statutes, and the present action is brought for the purpose of enforcing one of the rules of such illegal combination." As Point 5: "Unless the court has jurisdiction by virtue of the copyright law, the complaint is defective, as there is a total failure to allege and prove any damage whatsoever."

In the Scribner case, Stephen H. Olin, of counsel for the complainant, schedules the books copyrighted by complainants at fixed retail net prices, and sets forth as Point 1: "The rule for which we contend has been established in patent cases by decisions in this circuit, and by the recent decisions of the Circuit Court of Appeals" in the cases already referred to. As Point 2: "Macy & Co. are not only selling the plaintiffs' books without a license, but they are inducing jobbers and booksellers to break their contract with complainants touching the monopoly of their copyrights." As Point 3: "There can be no doubt that under the facts of this case the complainant is entitled to relief if the rule in copyright cases is the same as in patent cases." As Point 4: "The rules established in patent law apply to cases of copyright." As Point 5: "The decisions in copyright cases cited by defendants do not establish a rule different from the rules applied in the patent cases cited." As Point 6: "The copyright cases show that in the three fields of making, using, and selling, the law closely agrees with the law of patents."

In reply, the same counsel for Macy & Co. make denial that any right under the copyright statutes has been impaired, and therefore set forth as Point 1: "There being no diversity of citizenship, this court has no jurisdiction." As Point 2: "The complainants' exhibits introduced on the examination of Miss Kinnear and Mr. Emory are wholly incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial." As Point 3: "The complainants' brief discloses that whatever right of action, if any, exists, is the direct offshoot of the illegal agreements of an illegal combination."

It will be seen from this synopsis that the main point involved is the application of patent decisions to copyright law, as respects the protection of the price of the monopoly article on its final sale, though the complainants rely also to some extent on the theory of contract, and the defendants rely also to some extent on the anti-monopoly statutes as applicable to the American Publishers' Association. The main contention raises a point comparatively new before the courts, and of so much importance that it is not unlikely to be appealed in any event until a final decision is had from the United States Supreme Court.

PICTURES, ETC., WANTED FOR JAPANESE AND RUSSIAN SOLDIERS.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

SIR: On behalf of the 130,000 sick and wounded Japanese soldiers and the 20,000 Russian prisoners in Japan, let me beg your readers to send 1905 calendars, pictures of any kind, magazine illustrations, Christmas or Easter cards, old or new pictures stock, in care of Rev. Henry Loomis, Yokohama, Japan, who will distribute or forward them.

WILLIAM ELLIOTT GRIFFIS.

ITHACA, N. Y., February 11, 1904.

A BOOKSELLER'S VIEWS OF HIS MISSION.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

THE following has been called out by Mr. Brisbane Walker's talk to the Booksellers' League, elaborated in the columns of the New York Evening Journal of February 9:

DEAR SIR: I desire to call your attention to the attached article, clipped from the New York Evening Journal of February 9, on "The Bookseller's Important Work." The paragraph which especially attracted my attention was the following:

"We all want money—in reason—for poverty is slavery, and it means fear and dependence." That's it, "we all want money," and I wonder how much I could borrow from the writer of this article, or, better still, how much would I need to show a profitable business at the end of the year were I to conduct my business on the philanthropic basis of trying to elevate the standard of reading among those who have been my customers for years.

I know of no more certain method of committing "commercial suicide" than to follow out the instructions laid down in the said article.

Recommending fiction especially would be precisely like ordering dinner for another person to eat; about one chance in ten that you would order something to suit.

I am constrained to believe that if such a policy were carried out, about the only comforting thought of the bookseller at the end of the year would be the same as the man who had been poisoned by a mistake of the druggist, i.e., the poison was chemically pure.

"Every man thinks his own crow is the blackest." Let us suppose we recommend an encyclopædia to a customer. He buys it, takes it home and shows his neighbor, (who has a different one,) his bargain. The result, nine times out of ten, is that the neighbor will convince your customer that he has been swindled, or at least been persuaded to buy an inferior work because more profit would be made by the dealer than there would have been had he purchased the kind he (the neighbor) bought.

"Our instructions to clerks are prohibitive against the recommendation of books in general. We allow them to say whether or not the book has met with popular favor, tell how it sells, etc., but never to recommend. If recommended it may call to mind Mark Twain's famous maxim, "If there were no difference of opinion, there would be no horse races."

I do not wish to be understood by the foregoing that I am personally in favor of the immense amount of rot that issues annually from our presses; far from it; I am taking the stand that I do from a commercial point of view only.

"One more point to show the fallacy of this article. The reading public are fickle; a Churchill, a Tolstoi, a Dixon, or any other of our great writers of the present day might launch a work to-morrow, equal in mental merit to any of their previous stories, and the sales may never reach mediocrity. We booksellers do not have to tax our memories to any extent to recall cases where we have given large advance orders for new publications, based on the reputation of the author, only to find the sale nominal; yet, though the work may have been highly recommended by critic, publisher and merchant, it failed for some unknown reason to "go."

"All honor," says the article, "to the bookseller that takes a high and generous view of his work in life." So say I, but how often have we read of persons in history who were highly honored and yet starved to death.

Considering the close competition and other drawbacks ever present, I would prefer to have inscribed as an epitaph on my headstone, "Hic Jacet a successful book merchant."

Yours sincerely,
R. E. SHERWOOD.

PERSONAL NOTE.

VANDER A. McCORMICK, editor and publisher of the Chicago Evening Post, has been president of the Union League Club. A very wide circle of Mr. McCormick's associates in many literary and business circles will congratulate him on the fact that none will do so more heartily than his old friends in the booktrade, and pleasantly when he was associated with C. McClurg & Co.

AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

RESOLUTIONS ON THE DEATH OF JAMES POTT.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the American Publishers' Association, held on Wednesday, February 8, 1905, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That in the death of Mr. James Pott, senior member of the firm of James Pott & Company, the publishing fraternity and the community have suffered a severe loss. His career as a publisher and book-seller, extending over forty years, his public service and philanthropic work and his character, marked as it has been by devotion to the welfare of his fellow-men, by sincerity and a high sense of honor, entitle him to our respect and esteem.

Resolved, That we, the Directors of the American Publishers' Association, express our sorrow at the loss of a valued fellow-member.

Resolved, That we tender our sympathy to his family and business associates.

Resolved, That these Resolutions be entered in the records of this Board, and that they be engrossed and sent to the family of our late associate.

(Signed.) FRANK H. SCOTT, Pres.

FREDERICK A. STOKES, Sec'y.

ANNUAL MEETING.

At the annual meeting of the American Publishers' Association held on Wednesday, February 8, all the officers were re-elected.

OBITUARY NOTES.

WILLIAM CULLEN BRYANT, publisher of The Brooklyn Times, died on Wednesday, February 15, of apoplexy, in Dr. Cooley's Sanitarium, at Plainfield, N. J. Mr. Bryant was born in New York City in 1849 and was in his fifty-fifth year. He was treasurer of the Publishers' Press Association and secretary and founder of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, and was prominent in political and social circles of Brooklyn. He was one of the best known men in the journalistic profession throughout the United States.

WILLIAM COWPER PRIME, the well-known art collector, who had been vice-president and trustee of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City for more than twenty years, died in New York City on Monday, February 13. Dr. Prime was born at Cambridge, N. Y., in 1825. He contributed to the magazines poems and articles on coins, ceramics and wood engravings. Dr. Prime owned perhaps the finest collection of wood engravings in the world. It is understood that the collection will go to Princeton University. He was an enthusiastic fisherman.

ALPHEUS SPRING PACKARD, who has occupied the chair of Zoology and Geology at Brown University since 1878, and who was an authority of international standing on natural history and kindred branches, died at Providence, R. I., on Tuesday, February 14, of septic poisoning following the extraction of a tooth. Professor Packard was born in Brunswick, Me., in 1839, and graduated from Bowdoin College in 1861. He was the author of nearly 400 books and articles on scienc-tific subjects, and many of his books are textbooks in important institutions.

GENERAL LEWIS WALLACE, ("Lew Wallace,") former American Minister to Turkey, and veteran of the Mexican and Civil Wars, died at his home at Crawfordsville, Ind., on Wednesday, February 15. General Wallace was born at Brookville, Ind., April 10, 1827, and was seventy-eight years old. Notwithstanding his honorable career as patriot and lawyer in many important national suits, General Wallace was best known to the present generation as the author of "Ben Hur: a tale of the Christ," first published in 1880, which has almost reached the half million mark and still sells steadily. His other books are fully up to the same standard of merit, but "Ben Hur" made one of the great popular successes of its generation. Among his best-known other books are "The Fair God," a remarkably fine story of Mexico, 1873; "The Life of General Benjamin Harrison," 1888; "The Boyhood of Christ," 1889; and "The Prince of India," 1893.

HENRY KIGGINS, the founder and senior member of the Kiggins & Tooker Company of New York, died at Elizabeth, N. J., on February 3. Mr. Kiggins was born in Elizabeth, in 1815, and at fifteen years of age obtained employment in David Meeker's dry goods store in Elizabeth. In 1832 he became clerk in John J. Bryant's bookstore, and in 1836 bought out the business and conducted it until 1846, when he sold out to Samuel Pierce. In that year he commenced the manufacturing of blank books in Elizabeth, but in 1847 formed a co-partnership with A. W. Kellogg under the firm name of Kiggins & Kellogg, and moved the business to 10 John Street, New York. Shortly afterwards, the business having grown, the firm moved to 88 John Street, and in 1856 went into the store it now occupies at 123-125 William Street. In 1866, after a partnership extending over nineteen years, Mr. Kellogg retired, and the business was continued by the firm of Kiggins & Tooker Company, Charles P. Tooker and Isaac C. Kiggins being admitted. This co-partnership existed for sixteen years until 1882, when it was dissolved and a stock company formed, of which Henry Kiggins was made president, which position he held until the spring of 1885, when he resigned as president and retired as an active member of the company.

Old Gorgon Graham, Lorimer.

The Apple of Eden, E. Temple Thurston.

A Gardener's Year, H. Rider Haggard.

England Under the Stuarts, G. M. Trevelyan.

A Secret Agent in Port Arthur, W. Greener.

The Country Day by Day, E. K. Robinson.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

A. CONSTABLE & Co., London, have in preparation an authorized biography of Canon Ainger, including a selection of his correspondence.

THE HAMMERSMARK PUBLISHING COMPANY of Chicago have just brought out a metrical drama by a new writer, entitled "The Saxons: a Drama of Christianity in the North," by Edwin Davies Schoonmaker.

THROUGH the courtesy of a friend the Revell Company have printed a large edition of Campbell Morgan's account of the great revival that is just now sweeping over Wales. The publishers report that these pamphlets are for free distribution as long as the edition holds out.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have in press a new volume by James Huneker, author of "Overtones," etc., to be entitled "Iconoclasts," a book of dramatists. The book is the result of pilgrimages to many of the European capitals, where the author studied the revolutionary Continental playwrights of to-day. The book opens with a study of Henrik Ibsen, to whom the largest space is devoted, and all of whose plays are for the first time fully described and analyzed. The author then writes about the works of August Strindberg, Henry Becque, Gerhart Hauptmann, Paul Hervieu, "The Quintessence of Shaw," Maxim Gorky's "Nachtsyl," Hermann Sudermann, Princess Mathilde's play, Eleonora Duse, and Gabriele D'Annunzio, Villiers de l'Isle Adam, and Maurice Maeterlinck.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. will publish shortly a reprint of the English edition of 1703 of the "Voyage to North America," by Louis Armand de Lom D'Arce, third Baron de Lahontan, edited, with notes, etc., by Reuben Gold Thwaites. The work will be in two volumes. It describes the life of the whites and savages of New France. The baron travelled for ten years from Montreal to Quebec as far west as the Mississippi. He was sent to New France in 1683, when only seventeen years old, and recalled in 1693 to become King's Lieutenant at Plaisance, under Governor De Brouillan. But he fled from his island post at the end of that year, taking refuge in Portugal, Holland, Denmark, Spain, England and Hanover. The letters from these countries form the latter part of the "Voyages." The forthcoming work will contain facsimiles of the title-pages of the original edition* and of eighteen full-page illustrations and five maps. It will also include the "Dialogue with Adario."

A NEW series which promises to be of peculiarly practical interest and especial importance is to be begun shortly by A. S. Barnes & Company. It will present books by men of such distinction as the Rev. Dr. Charles Cuthbert Hall, president of the Union Theological Seminary; the Rev. Washington Gladden, the Rev. Dr. William C. Bitting and the Rev. Dr. William Douglas Mackenzie, president of the Hartford Theological Seminary. The editor of the series, the eminent clergyman and writer, Rev. Dr. Henry A.

Stimson, has written the first book in the series, The Right Life, a title which comes with peculiar aptness at a time when various kinds of life not necessarily fundamental have received much attention. This series, which is essentially practical and modern, applies the latest results of scholarship and study of modern conditions to such questions as What are we to believe? What is the Bible to-day? What is The Right Life? What is the moral law in business, and other subjects which come home to thinking people. It is believed that the series will be original in its plan and scope, and the freshness, interest and authoritative character of the treatment will invest these books with a unique distinction.

FOX, DUFFIELD & Co. will publish on the 15th of March, in two volumes, the "Letters of Henrik Ibsen," translated by John Nilsen Laurvick. The entire collection in this volume, which has been made by a son of the great dramatist, with his father's sanction covers a period of about fifty years, from 1849 to 1898. Among those to whom letters are addressed are King Charles of Sweden, Georg Brandes, the Danish critic; Björnsterne Björnson, William Archer and Edmund Gosse, as well as an interesting circle of less celebrated friends. Ibsen's genius has attracted so many readers and admirers, who have nevertheless been puzzled as to his personality, that the self-revelation in these letters is certain to attract considerable attention this spring. Early in April they will bring out a work of fiction entitled "Hester of Vermont," a romance of Old Bennington in Revolutionary times, by Theodora Peck, with illustrations. Later in April they will publish a work entitled "Japanese Life and Character," by Kakuzo Okakura, an explanation, from one of the most talented of living Japanese, of the qualities that make the Japanese character unique. How the Japanese do things, a theme which has for a long time interested students of their art and civilization, is more than ever to the fore since the splendid record they have made in their war with Russia. Mr. Okakura's discussion of his countrymen is timely in the highest degree.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO PRESS has just published "Studies in Ancient Furniture," by Miss C. A. Ransom. The frontispiece, a colored lithograph, shows an elaborate Roman couch of the fourth century B.C., and 29 plates and 60 text figures fully illustrate other furniture of the ancients. The book, a large quarto, will prove interesting to archaeologists, as well as to students of furniture design in this and other ages. The press will publish on March 1, in two volumes, "Studies in General Physiology," by Professor Jacques Loeb, now at the University of California, containing a résumé of the investigations of this eminent biologist during the past twenty years. The following works are announced for early publication: "The Progress of Hellenism in Alexander's Empire," a compendium of the long and brilliant development of human culture under Greek influence; "The Higher Life of Chi-ago," which deals with the uplifting elements in the life of a great city; "The Messianic Hope in the New Testament," a new book by Professor Shailer Mathews, of the Divinity School of the University of Chicago, in which the author investigates to what extent the concepts of the New Testament writers were essential and to what extent formal; or, in other words, seeks to determine whether these concepts were of universal or of local application; also, The Barrows Lectures in India for 1902-1903, delivered by President Charles Cuthbert Hall and entitled "Christian Belief Interpreted by Christian Experience," which presents the essential principles of the Christian religion to the educated members of other religions in India and the far East.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

NOW READY

THE INNER LIFE OF RUSSIA

The White Terror and the Red

A Novel of Revolutionary Russia

By A. CAHAN

12mo, cloth. $1.50

Mr. Cahan's inside knowledge of Russian revolutionary movements, the scenes and victims of the plots, and his grasp of character, all are evident in "The White Terror and the Red," a novel timely, dramatic and compelling in its interest.

"A novel of the most sensational episodes."—From an advance notice in The Bookman.

READY NEXT WEEK

THE WANDERERS A Novel

By HENRY C. ROWLAND, author of "To Windward."

12mo, cloth, with frontispiece. $1.50

Incident, adventure, love-making and humor follow fast in Dr. Rowland's brilliant story. From Gibraltar to the South Seas, the course of the twice abducted yacht is marked by a succession of delightful and surprising adventures which keep the reader in suspense. It is a story full of red blood and dramatic situations, told in the vigorous, inimitable way that has gained for the author so wide an audience.

"The Wanderers" is one of the novels that will be read and talked about, and will increase the number of those who have learned to look for Dr. Rowland's work.

ALSO READY NEXT WEEK

THE FIRST BOOK IN

THE RIGHT LIFE SERIES

A series of small, easily read books intended to furnish material for settling the convictions of thoughtful men upon questions which are uppermost to-day. What are we to believe? What is the Right Life? What are we to think of the Bible to-day? What are the ethics of business? How should religion be taught?—and the like. They are written by men of large experience, giving expression to the best convictions of their lives, which while representing the latest scholarships are readable and throughout interesting. It is a series dealing with practical every-day matters in the freshest and most thorough-going fashion.

THE RIGHT LIFE AND HOW TO LIVE IT

By HENRY A. STIMSON

With an introduction by DR. WILLIAM H. MAXWELL, City Superintendent of Schools, New York.

12mo, cloth. $1.20 net.

A modern, every-day book, suggestive, practical, helpful, which brings home the spiritual side of life with peculiar closeness to parents, teachers and young men and women.

President ARTHUR T. HADLEY, of Yale University, says in a letter to the author: "If the young men and women of the next generation could be permeated with the views and ideals which underlie this book, it would be a most useful thing for their conduct and their character."

Dr. ALFRED E. STEARNS, Principal of Phillips Andover Academy, says: "The book is a real treasure. I shall recommend it."

---

By HARRIS DICKSON

---

THE deepest impression of Stephen Ravanel's childhood days was the cold, still face of his father who had been assassinated. That impression lived with him by day and night. He came of a proud, passionate race, and he lived for a certain hour. When the time arrived and he was face to face with the son of the man who killed his father he was able to hold himself in check. But, when chance threw into his way, alone and at night, the assassin himself, then—Then there happened what makes the mystery of this thrilling and extraordinary story of life in the south in the present day. It is a novel of cleverness, capital plot, and surprising climaxes. A love story of unusual sweetness, and the reader will be quite as much interested in the womanly figure of Mercia and the cheery little gray as in the vigorous and brilliant person of young Stephen Ravanel himself.
